Abstract

The study for which this supplement was prepared consisted of an investigation of the use of libraries outside their own campus by the students, faculty, and research personnel of Ohio colleges and universities. The results, conclusions and recommendations based on the data collected are published separately (LI 001 802). This supplement consists of tables and maps, grouped by region, which show the borrowing patterns for every Ohio college and university included in the original study. These data were obtained from the interlibrary loan records of the institutions surveyed, covering the 12-month period between June 1967 and July 1968. The table for each institution shows the total number of items borrowed from other colleges and universities in the state, from non-academic libraries throughout Ohio, and from academic and non-academic institutions in other states. The number of theses and dissertations are noted separately. The maps included with the tables illustrate the in-state borrowing patterns, both from academic and non-academic libraries, for each institution. (Author/JB)

NOTE

The Study for which this supplement was prepared consisted of an investigation of the use of libraries outside their own campus by the students, faculty and research personnel of Ohio colleges and universities. The data collected, and the results, conclusions and recommendations based on the data, are published separately.* The material which follows was not included in the main report due to lack of space. It was thought important, however, for these maps to be published, not only because of their utility in documenting interlibrary use in Ohio, but also because of the interesting and rather dramatic way in which they illustrate that activity.

- A. J. Goldwyn

* Copies of the text of this study, by A. J. Goldwyn and Edward Verhosek, have been deposited with the ERIC Clearinghouse at the University of Minnesota and are available on interlibrary loan from The State Library of Ohio. In addition, each of the 77 Ohio academic libraries, comprising the survey population, has received a copy of the text.

INTRODUCTION

The tables which follow show the borrowing patterns for every college and university in Ohio which was included in the original study, as listed on page iv. Totals are shown for items borrowed in each case from the other colleges and universities in the state, from the non-academic libraries throughout Ohio, and from academic and non-academic institutions in other states. Theses and dissertations borrowed from academic institutions are noted in parentheses, although they are included in the total borrows from such institutions*.

The map facing each table illustrates the in-state borrowing pattern, both from academic and non-academic libraries, for that institution.

These tables and maps have been grouped by region. The region and the institutions within it preface each group, of which there are seven. Institutions within regions are presented in alphabetical order.

* These data were obtained from the various interlibrary loan records of the institutions surveyed, covering a 12-month period between June 1967 and July 1968.
